S. J. TILDEN DEAD.

The Venerable Statesman Goes to His Long Sleep.

HIS DEATH UNEXPECTED.

Those Who Were Present at the Dying Bedside.

THE END A PEACEFUL ONE.

HE DIES AT THE AGE OF SEVENTY-TWO YEARS.

Paralysis and Bodily Infirmitie Had Reduced Him to a Mere Skeleton—How He Looked in a Late Photograph—A Brief Review of His Remarkable Life.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Samuel J. Tilden died at Greystone, N. Y., at 8:45 a. m., today. Mr. Tilden had been in very feeble health for some time, yet his sudden demise was entirely unexpected. The end was peaceful and quiet. The immediate cause of Mr. Tilden's death was the failure of the heart, following an acute attack of diarrhoea and nausea. There were present at the time Mr. Tilden's niece, Miss Gould, and Dr. Charles E. Simonds and Samuel Swift.

Paralysis and bodily infirmities, incident to old age, had reduced Mr. Tilden to a mere skeleton, and his last days were marked by extreme feebleness.

Samuel Jones Tilden was born at Lebanon, N. Y., February 9, 1814. He graduated at Yale college, studied law and was admitted to the bar. Caring little for social pleasures he remained unmarried, giving his whole time and energy to his profession. He became eminently successful, acquiring a large fortune. Though from an early age he took an exceedingly active interest in politics, his retiring disposition prevented him from seeking the many public offices he might have obtained. He was chairman of the state Democratic committee for thirteen years. In 1846 and 1867 he was a member of the state constitutional convention, and served in the state assembly for two terms, 1846, 1872.

In 1871 he was prominent in the prosecution of the "Tweed ring" in New York, and in 1874 he was elected governor of New York by a majority of nearly 50,000. In 1876 he was the Democratic candidate for the presidency. The close election, after considerable public agitation, was given to his competitor, R. B. Hayes. Mr. Tilden's city residence at Grammercy park, New York, and his country estate at Greystone, about two miles north of Yonkers on the Hudson river, are monuments to his excellent taste.

Mr. Tilden's country home at Greystone is situated on the east bank of the Hudson, about eighteen miles from the New York city hall, and is one of the first among the beautiful homes of America. It was built by John T. Waring, a Massachusetts hat manufacturer, who made his money, it is said, by using convict labor. The building and farm of about 100 acres cost him $400,000. Mr. Tilden bought it in 1879 and was constantly at work improving it. Every day that was not stormy he might have been seen inspecting the various portions of his "farm" as he called it, and it is a farm, and an exceedingly well regulated one, the stock being the very best procurable.

Here for a year past his daily life has been about as follows: He usually awoke in the morning about 4:30 o'clock. An electric bell at the head of his bed summoned his valet, who gave him his medicine, which he took as regularly as he did his food. Afterward he would lie about until 8 o'clock, seemingly dozing, though when his valet, thinking him asleep, approached the bed he found his bright eyes open and watching him. If he felt well he was assisted down to a 9 o'clock breakfast, which usually consisted of milk and some rich broth. Owing to paralysis, Mr. Tilden was unable to close his lips, and his mouth was constantly open. His right hand from the same cause was entirely useless, trembling all the time. He had not even the power to raise it to his mouth. His left hand was but slightly affected by the stroke of paralysis, and he had the partial use of it. In eating he used his left hand to hold up his lower jaw.

His faithful companion, Miss Anna Gould, who is the sister of the wife of Mr. Henry Tilden, placed to his mouth every particle of food that he ate. She generally put it in his mouth with a spoon, and he was enabled to swallow it by raising his lower jaw with his left hand, and pulling his head back. While at breakfast, the morning papers were read to him, and notes made by his secretaries as to the direction of any important point or move in the political world. After breakfast he usually went into his office, on the right side of the hall, where he saw the different employers of the place and heard their respective reports.

Among Senators and Representatives. WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A general expression of regret is heard among senators and representatives in all political parties, over the death of Mr. Tilden. His demise is not referred to by anyone as having a bearing upon political affairs. That, they all say, has long since been discounted by his retirement from politics. Only his public services are referred to. Senators Beck, Vance, Vest and Gray say the people have lost a true friend, and the government an ardent advocate. No man has rendered more consistent and patriotic services in the legislative and council branches of the government than he, they say, and the death will be felt for years by those who have sought his advice in national affairs. Mr. Randall, whose personal friend Mr. Tilden was, feels the loss more acutely, perhaps, than any man at the capital. Mr. Randall says the efforts of Mr. Tilden have done more than those of any other man to stimulate American interests in foreign lands, to accelerate the agitation of a new navy and to create a desire to improve American trade throughout the world. A number of the most prominent men in congress have declared their intention to be present at the obsequies.

The house unanimously adopted the following resolution, offered by Mr. Morrison, of Illinois:

"RESOLVED, That the house of representatives of the United States has heard with profound sorrow of the death of the eminent and distinguished citizen, Samuel J. Tilden."

President Cleveland's Condolence.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The president was apprised of Mr. Tilden's death about half past 9 this morning. He at once sent the following telegram of condolence:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, Aug. 4."

"Col. Samuel J. Tilden, Jr., Greystone, Yonkers, New York."

"I have this moment learned of the sudden death of your illustrious relative, Samuel J. Tilden, and hasten to express my individual sorrow in an event by which the state of New York has lost her most distinguished son and the nation one of its wisest and most patriotic counsellors."

GROVER CLEVELAND.

At Brooklyn, N. Y.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The flags are flying at half mast in this city on all the public buildings to-day out of respect to the memory of Samuel J. Tilden. Expressions of regret for the departed statesman are heard upon every side.

SOUTH CAROLINA DEMOCRATS.

Meeting of the State Convention at Columbia, with a Full Delegation.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 5.—The State Democratic committee will meet here at 12 m. The entire number of delegates have already arrived. The principal fight will be for governor, with John P. Richardson, present state treasurer, and John C. Sheppard, present governor, as the principal candidates, with strong probability of a dark horse winning. The Tillmanites or former delegations, it is believed, will support Sheppard, who is a prominent lawyer. Either Richardson or Sheppard will be acceptable to the people.

It is difficult to determine who is the leading man. Caucuses of county delegations are being held at various places. Ex-Governor Johnson Hagood will be permanent chairman. Probably three of the present state officers will be re-elected. The excitement, while quiet, is intense, and every effort is being made by the friends of Richardson and Sheppard. The first ballot will be largely complimentary. The state grange and the horticultural fair is also in session here.

A Business Boom in the Metal Trade.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 5.—Upwards of 600 puddling furnaces are now on double turn in this city, or nearly 200 more than in the month of August last year. The nail market is getting overstocked and prices are so low that several firms have refused all orders and will shut down in a few days. The demand for muck iron is so great that every bar could be used in every puddling furnace was on double turn. There was more iron and steel made last month than in any month for the last eight years. The metal trade is very brisk, there now being but two furnaces idle. The whole amount of metal made in the seven months of this year will exceed the output for the corresponding period last year 51,000 tons. The mills here consume over 300 tons daily in addition to the metal made here.

A Sad Affair.

WYOMING, O., Aug. 5.—A telegraphic dispatch brought the news to-day from Lexington, Va., of the drowning of Livingston Houston, aged nineteen, second son of Rev. V. W. Houston, pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place.

Arrested for Murder.

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 5.—Frederick Schultz was arrested on charge of murder. He struck Hamlin Haurad on the head with a spade a couple of weeks ago, and Haurad died from the injury.

THE GOVERNOR OF TEXAS.

HE WILL USE HIS OWN STATE FORCES FOR WARLIKE PURPOSES.

The Whole State Militia are Ready for War at a Moment's Notice From Governor Ireland—A Conservative Protest From the Citizens of El Paso.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 5.—Governor Ireland was asked what he would do if Mr. Bayard's reply to his communication regarding Rasmus should prove unsatisfactory. He replied: "I will give the secretary a reasonable time to reply. I think it unadvisable to anticipate his answer by saying what I shall do." This means, it is said, that the governor in the event of an unsatisfactory answer from Washington, will use his forces for warlike purposes.

A very near relative of the governor regarding the latter's purpose, said: "If the Federal government does not take immediate steps to avenge the death of the murdered man and wipe out the insult offered to Texas, the governor will call upon the people to assist him in demanding reparation."

The Bryan rifles, Texas home guards, Granite rifles, Fourth regiment, consisting of fifteen companies, and in fact nearly the entire state militia have tendered their services at a moment's notice from the governor, while offers on the part of individuals to raise commands are reaching him hourly.

Joseph Hoffstetter, the extradition agent, who surrendered Rasmus, is out in a card, in which he states that Sheriff Oglosby applied to him for extradition papers, assuring him that he would have the warrant and testimony from Mexico next day, whereupon Hoffstetter issued the order. He adds:

"I would also state that I am reliably informed that this man in 1873, while a refugee from justice from Mexico, declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, since which time he has served several years as an officer in the Mexican army, and only returned to Eagle Pass about two months ago."

A Citizens' Protest.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 5.—The popular wave of excitement that is sweeping over Texas on account of the bold stand taken by Governor Ireland toward the state department, on account of the Rio Grande border trouble, has elicited from the bankers, lawyers, merchants, and business men of El Paso, the following protest:

"We, the undersigned citizens of El Paso, believing that we represent the voice of the conservative element, protest against so much of the resolutions adopted by the mass meeting last evening, as reflects upon our general government for inaction in the pending international question with Mexico, and state that we have confidence in the intention and ability of our government, and of the present administration, to protect American citizens abroad, and while we heartily concur in so much of said resolutions as urge upon the government the necessity of prompt and energetic measures to vindicate the rights of citizens of the United States in Mexico, and desire to call the earnest attention of those in power to this most important matter, and while we pledge ourselves, when necessary, to heartily support our government in demanding and enforcing, even by arms, the proper respect for our citizens and our flag, we trust that all pending difficulties may be amicably settled without tarnish to the honor of either nation, and that the friendly relations now existing may continue between the two republics."

Cutting will be sentenced to-day, and it is pretty certain that he will at once be taken to Chihuahua to serve out his sentence whatever it may be. Last night he was very downcast at the fate in store for him.

Alabama Offering Troops.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 5.—The Mexican war feeling is very fierce in many of the small towns of the southwest. At Sheffield, Ala., last night, a large meeting of citizens was held, endorsing the action of the governor of Texas, and resolutions were adopted and telegraphed him, offering him troops to move on to Mexico.

War Almost Inevitable.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—During the past twenty-four hours scores of telegraphic communications have been received from Texas by the delegation in congress from that state, in relation to the threatened outbreak on the border over the Cutting case. Craine and others of the delegation, who have heretofore regarded the affair in a manner not at all serious, now say at least border warfare can only be averted by quick and decisive steps on the part of both this and the Mexican governments. They believe the president should immediately renew the demand for the release of Cutting, and do so in the name of peace, and prevent bloodshed.

KILLED BY WHISKY.

A Young Man Drinks Twelve Glasses of Whisky and Drops Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—W. on John Monahan, aged eighteen, entered a Second street saloon in Elizabeth this morning he met a number of friends, one of whom said, bantering: "What are you in here for? You are too young to drink."

"I can drink all you can pay for," replied Monahan. A glass was filled with whisky and he tossed it off with ardent satisfaction. It is reported that he drank off eleven other glasses filled with whisky, while the crowd applauded his pluck. After his twelfth glass he staggered in the street, and after walking about two blocks he reeled and fell to the sidewalk dead. An inquest will be held. Monahan's relatives say his death was caused by heart disease.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 5.—Grand Master Workman Powderly writes to a friend and a well known politician here that under no circumstances will he allow his name to be used as a candidate for congress from the Twelfth district. Mr. Powderly says: "I am tired of seeing my name used in connection with politics. I am much obliged to my many friends for the interest manifested in me, but I am not desirous of being a candidate for congress. I am satisfied with my present work; probably I would not be satisfied in congress among a lot of politicians."

THE LAST SAD RITES.

Funeral Services Over the Bodies of the Ill-Fated Schooner Victims.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The funeral of Mrs. Stevens and her two unfortunate daughters, Miss Mamie Stevens and Mrs. Harry Askin, who met such an untimely death in the cabin of the ill-fated yacht, Sarah Craig, off Sandy Hook Friday night, took place here at 10 o'clock from the family residence No. 1,933 Judson place. Fully five thousand men, women, and children filled the streets in the neighborhood of the house. The services were conducted by the Rev. Alfred A. Ricketts, and were of the most impressive character. At the conclusion of the services at the house the bodies were conveyed to Monument cemetery, where they were buried in the family lot.

Services over the remains of Chester T. Clark, the only male victim of the pleasure party, were held at the residence of his father in West Philadelphia, at 10 a. m. For more than two hours a constant stream of people poured into the house of mourning to view the remains. At the conclusion of the services the remains were removed to the Pennsylvania railroad depot and placed on the noon train, and taken to Coatesville, Chester county, where they will be interred.

Miss Bessie Morrill was buried in the afternoon, and the funeral of Miss Rettew will take place here.

Five Children Drowned.

KEOKUK, Ia., Aug. 5.—A sad drowning affair occurred near Mt. Zion, Iowa. Six children ranging in ages from six to thirteen years went out to play, as was supposed, and wandered to the river where five of them ventured in bathing. On being missed search was made and one of the children was found wandering in the woods near the scene of the drowning, but she could not tell anything concerning the others. Upon further search the clothing of the missing children was found on the river bank, and the river was dragged for the remains. All of them were recovered. The following are the names of the victims: Edith Bolt, aged thirteen; Clarence Gillette, ten; Morris Hook, eight; Charlie Hook, four, and Susie Hook, six.

A Theatrical Manager Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Henry C. Jarrett, formerly of Jarrett & Palmer, one of the best-known theatrical managers in the United States, died on Monday, at Buenos Ayres, of lung disease. Mr. Jarrett will long be remembered by New Yorkers as being the first to introduce into this country spectacular drama, produced on a scale of magnificence and lavish expense such as had never before been attempted on this side of the Atlantic. The "Black Crook," the "White Fawn," "Julius Caesar," "Sardanapalus," and other representations of a like class, were the plays which brought him so prominently before the public and gained him much celebrity. He was born in Baltimore, in 1828.

Railroad Reading.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 5.—Articles were signed by which the Rock Island is to have the use of the St. Joseph & Grand Island right of way from the west bank of the Missouri river to a point nine miles inland. At Wathena, the Kansas first station, the two roads will have a joint station. The Rock Island will also use the Grand Island bridge across the Missouri. Graders are now at work along the entire line between St. Joseph and Topeka, and the work of building a bridge over the Kansas river was begun at the latter point. The Rock Island people say they will have trains running from St. Joe to Wichita within eight months.

Grand Jury Creates Surprise.

SHOALS, Ind., Aug. 5.—Intense excitement prevails here, and one surprise rapidly follows another as the work of the grand jury progresses. Many of the "best citizens" are on the anxious seat, awaiting their turn. Fred Robbins, Doc Stephens and John Nichols, three well-known young men, were arrested on a charge of grand larceny. The two former gave $500 bond each, while the latter languishes in jail. Young Lockhart goes to the penitentiary to-day.

Horribly Mangled by Machinery.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 5.—Will Kohler, a workman in the machine department of the East street shop, was caught in the belt of a rivet machine between 5 and 6 o'clock, and horribly injured, having his left collar bone broken and torn loose from the shoulder blade, his right eye put out, and his head and breast fearfully bruised. He may die, and it is certain that it will be many months before he can return to work.

Fatal Explosion of Nitro-Glycerine.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 5.—At Duke Center, near here, George R. Platt, foreman of a nitro-glycerine factory, was handling spent acid just outside the works, when a small quantity of the explosive went off, killing him instantly. His body was horribly mangled. The factory took fire, but Jack Vandewater, an assistant, with great pluck, extinguished the flames, thereby preventing the destruction of 1,600 pounds of glycerine.

An Ex-Episcopalian Bishop Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Samuel Allen McCoskey, formerly Episcopalian bishop of Detroit, according to the Churchman newspaper, is dead. It is not known where he died. He was consecrated in 1836, and deposed in 1853, having been adjudged guilty of charges then made against him. He was eighty-two years old, and the thirty-second Episcopalian bishop consecrated in America.

An Assignment.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 5.—Executions have been filed in the sheriff's office against James M. Littell, an extensive dealer in gents' furnishing goods, of this city, to the amount of $14,435.64. A meeting of the creditors has been called. No levy has yet been made on the proprietor.

Not Able to Meet His Obligations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—G. H. Palmer, a stock broker, has just announced in the stock exchange his inability to meet his obligations. His liabilities are believed to be small. His embarrassment has been common talk on the "street" for the past several days.

Twenty-Eight Degrees Below Zero.

MOUNT WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—During a heavy gale and snow storm on the White mountains last night the mercury fell 28 degrees below zero. There were two shocks of earthquakes felt at Fabyon's hotel.
